Swhermeno, C. E., Dec. 21.—The Court met at 10 o clock. Thomas Madden was egain placed at the bar.

Mr. Ramsey addressed the jury for the prosecution. In replying to the speech for the defence, he said, the insimuation about the exclusion of Catholies from the jury was most unfounded. The counsel for the pisoners by asking for an English speaking jury, had himself excluded a portion of the population, who were, almost to a mas, of the same religion as himself. evidence; and thirdly, notice the defence. Under the last head he said, there was no evidence, except Schiller's, about some matters of form. Besides that various explanations and arguments were offered by way of defence; these he stated and commented upon. He then said the whole question was whether the prisoner was on the 9th of June present, aiding and assisting the persons who on and previous to that date, had entered the Province with intent to levy war on her Majesty. It had been contended that the expression in the indictment, "Who had theretofore to wit, on the 9th of June, entered Lower Canada," required proof that the entry was made on that day, and not on the 6th, 7th or 8th. He held that if the expression would have been "Did Enter," the jury had to consider whether there was a foreign invasion, yes or no. If so, was the prisoner found among the body of the armed men who invaded the Province. If he was so found, what was he do. g! Were his intentions innocent or had he a common design with them! The Judge then proceeded to pass the sentence of death in the following words:

Thomas Madden you have been indicted, tried, and convicted for the oftence mentioned in the statute recently passed in this country under circumstances of very great emergency. You have been proved to have joined yourself to a bank of persons who had ruthlessly invaded this country, the inhabitants of which had done them no harm. In your situation it is not for me to say anything to you that could increase the painful feeling which must now be tearing your breast. I shall not say one word more than I am obliged to say, and what I am obliged to say, and what I am obliged to say, and what I am obliged to say is as the minister, not the author, of the law. The sentence is that you, Thomas Madden, be now taken to the prison from thence you came, and that on Friday, the 19th of February next, you be taken from the heave of Sand II in the morning of the said day, you be hanged by the neck until you are dead, and may God have merey on your soul.

The Judge spoke with much feeling, but the prisoner betrayed no emotion either at the announcement of the verdict, or while sentence was being passed, except that a sneering, defiant smile passed over his countenance as the Judge promounced the last word. He was then taken back to all.
